STORMS!

Central Indiana is Devastated.

A Storm of Hail and Rain Swept Over that Territory Last Evening.

And Houses, Trees and Growing Crops are Laid Low by its Fury.

VERY FIERCE.

The Hardest Storm of the Season in Indiana.

DANVILLE, Ind., May 24.—A terrible wind and rain storm passed through Hendricks county yesterday afternoon doing great damage. Many cattle and horses were killed by falling trees and many houses had all the windows torn out by hail. The greatest damage is to the growing wheat crop destroyed along the track of the storm. No lives were lost, but several houses were blown down.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 24.—The severest wind and thunder storm of the season passed over the city last evening. There was a heavy fall of hail, many windows being broken. As near as can be learned the storm was general for fifty miles around here.

THE NATION.

Pensions in the Senate and Commerce in the House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—After the routine morning business in the senate to-day, the private pension cases were taken up.

HOUSE.

Mr. Dangley, of Maine, from the shipping committee, reported back the shipping bill with the recommendation that certain senate amendments be concurred in, and others non-concurred. The recommendations of the committee were agreed to. Among the amendments non-concurred in is that known as the Frye amendment.

The speaker announced the appointment of Messrs. Blount, Riggs and Bingham as conferees on the postoffice appropriation bill, to talk over the $800,000 senate amendment rejected by the house.

The bill granting an increase of pension to the widow of Commander T. A. McCraven passed. Under the call of states the following bills were introduced and referred:

By Breckenridge, of Arkansas to consolidate the customs districts.

By Bland, to derive an income tax to be applied to the payment of pensions.

By Bennett, of North Carolina, to divide the surplus money in the treasury on June 1, 1886, among the several states and territories for educational purposes.

Secretary Manning continues to improve slowly. It is thought he will not resume his official duties until the beginning of next autumn.

Mr. Stahlmecker, from the committee on library, reported a bill appropriating $25,000 to aid in the erection of a monument to General Anthony Wayne, at Stony Point, N. Y. Referred to committee of the whole.

THE OLD STORY.

Three Children Burn Themselves to Death.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., May 24.—Three children of Michael Feehan, a miner, left at home yesterday, poured coal oil into the grate and were burned to death.

A Rich Farmer Shot Dead.

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo., May 24.—Swain Anderson, one of the wealthiest and most respected farmers of this county, was shot and killed last Saturday night while on his way home from a Masonic lodge meeting. No motive except robbery is given as the cause of the murder.

A Sunday Fire.

BUTLER, Pa., May 24.—A fire yesterday destroyed the livery stables of Beckel & Biehl, Kennedy & Flick and Julian Clark and cremated five valuable horses. Loss about $15,000; very little insurance.

Judge Chapin went to Indianapolis at noon to-day.

A LITTLE CHAT.

Covering Politics, Men and Events of Interest in Fort Wayne.

The premium list for the state fair for 1886 is out. The fair will be held September 27 to October 2.

The democratic congressional convention of the second district, held at Washington, Ind., Thursday, nominated John H. O'Neill for congress. Thos. B. Cobb, the present incumbent, was not a candidate.

There are fifteen hold-over democrats in the Indiana state senate and ten hold-over republican senators. The democrats are certain of a nice majority in the next senate and can more than hold their own in the house.

Larry O'Brien, the man charged with cutting with intent to kill one Perry, at Decatur, some two weeks ago, was taken before the court and bail for his appearance at the next term of court was placed at $1,000, instead of $2,000, as formerly. He gave bail and is now a free man.

The Sisters of Providence at St. Mary's institute, near Terre Haute, have been so annoyed by persons who visit their grounds as though they were a public park, and have picnics there without permission, that they publish a notice prohibiting what is considered an intrusion.

The Eighty-fourth Indiana Volunteers will, with the Fortieth Ohio Volunteers, hold a brigade reunion at Union City, September 19, the anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga. These two regiments were brigaded together during their entire service, and no doubt this reunion will be a happy one.

At the Dairy Maids' Festival, given last Friday evening by young ladies of South Bend for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A., Governor Gray was present and delivered an address. During the day he visited the High school, Notre Dame University and St. Mary's academy and spoke to the students at length at each place.

"Hon. Robert Lowry made one of the best speeches we ever heard him make at the congressional convention last week. He is able, and this off-hand effort proves to every fair, honest and candid man that he is the right man in the right place. Who can take exceptions," says a Rome City correspondent.

Mr. Lafayette Sams, of Lagrange county, has invented a water bicycle, by which he can glide over the water with the ease of an ordinary velocipede rider on a good road, and about as fast. He gave a private exhibition of his operation on Sylvan lake on Tuesday last to an Island Park assembly committee, who were so well pleased with it as to engage him to ride the lake on the 4th of July.

"Notwithstanding the great fight made against Judge Lowry by the Gazette, of Fort Wayne, he was nominated by the democratic convention as a candidate for congress, and will be elected by an overwhelming majority over any man that the Gazette can name as a candidate on the republican ticket. 'Growler' can now begin to bark, as the way is clear and all danger is a thing of the past," says the Decatur Democrat.

The tenth annual meeting of the Music Teachers' State association of Indiana will be held in Indianapolis on June 22, 23, 24 and 25. Arrangements have been made with the world renowned pianist, Mr. W. H. Sherwood, to give a piano recital and lecture; also with Mr. M. L. Bartlett, a prominent vocalist of Chicago, and Mr. L. M. Forman, an organist, of Philadelphia. The Indiana association is the oldest state association and one of the best.

A grand reunion of the improved order of Red Men will be held at the Indianapolis shooting park, July 5, under the auspices of Dakota Tribe, No. 42, of Frankfort and Minnewa Tribe, No. 38, of Indianapolis. Over two thousand Red Men are expected to be present. There will be a parade and addresses by Governor Gray and Mayor Denny. At the park there will be music, dancing, target shooting etc. Judge Joseph C. Suit, of Frankfort, will be orator of the day.

"Charley Munson, of Fort Wayne, who has practically a lien upon the democratic nomination for state auditor in his clothes, was in the city to-day, and he thinks the democracy have a sure thing upon the state this year. Martin Krueger, of Laporte, who wants to be clerk of the supreme court, was also here, and it is said of him that, while he takes this to be a solemn world, he is cheered by the excellence of his political prospects," says the Indianapolis correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

BARTLEY CAMPBELL.

The Well-Known Playwright's Mental and Physical Wreck.

Poor Bartley Campbell! He has gone quite off his head. They say he has followed in the footsteps of John McCullough. They say, too, that dissipation of various kinds caused his downfall. He was a brilliant, jolly fellow, who certainly deserved a better fate than to go crazy.

He was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., nearly or quite fifty years ago. He was a poor boy to begin, and the same fate has stuck to him ever since, with the exception of seven years, when he was in clover, and spent money like water.

He was a newspaper reporter, working on The Pittsburgh Dispatch till he was 27. He was chiefly noted for his uncommon imagination. They say it was a good deal easier for him to write a thing up without seeing it than with. This brilliant imagination got him into trouble sometimes, when unreasonable people insisted on drawing the line between fact and fancy, but it helped him in the story writing business. It is probable that 999 out of every 1,000 newspaper reporters try their hand at play writing.

To be the great American play writer, who has never yet appeared on the scene, to write a tremendous drama, and there after settle down and live off his royalties and escape newspaper drudgery—this is the golden dream of the average journalist.

Mr. Campbell had been tinkering at play writing many years before he produced "My Partner," his first success. He says, however, that the idea was put into his head by the praise bestowed on a story he dramatized for some amateurs to play. But he scribbled and had hard luck years before there was any reward. He led the forlorn hope of drama writing and play acting. He started companies about the country who broke up and walked back home trying to produce his unsuccessful plays. He was the byword for failure with the theatrical people.

At last "My Partner" hit the mark. At last money and a name were waited on the breath of public applause for the forlorn playwright. Mr. Campbell went to Europe. He drove about the streets of beautiful Paris. He was shown the splendid mansions of the popular actors and theatre managers there. "Where do the authors of the plays live?" asks Bartley.

He was shown their cheap and shabby houses. "I will be both author and manager," then said he. When he returned home he produced his own plays, traveling about the country and superintending them. "The Galley Slave" was his next successful drama. After that came "The White Slave" and "Siberia." He had plenty of money then, and no end of friends. He was liberal with his money, giving to everybody that asked.

But at length he put a bad play on the stage at the Fourteenth Street theatre, New York, of which he was the lessee and manager. It failed, and Campbell himself went west with it, leaving his New York theatre to be managed for him. The play failed all along. His affairs became embarrassed and were put into a receiver's hands. Campbell returned to New York, and acted very queer. One of his exploits was to break into the box office of his theatre and take therefrom sixty tickets, which he scattered promiscuously among people he knew.

Now at last it is feared he has all gone to pieces mentally. He remembers strongly the late Artemus Ward. He has a tall, slouchy, loose-jointed figure, which adds to the likeness. Mr. Campbell has worked incessantly for his success, and it is melancholy to think of the fate that has overtaken him.

Dr. Mary Walker.

There are two things about this noted little woman that no fellow can find out. Nobody ever did find out yet, and the prospect is the doctor will go down to the grave keeping her mouth shut on these two important matters. Who says no woman but Becky Jones can keep a secret?

One of the things nobody can ascertain about Dr. Mary is where she got the title of doctor, the other is how old she is. The latter, of course, is private, and nobody's business, but the first is something different.

Somewhere lately a newspaper remarked that the lady's mother had just died, aged 82. There is a tradition, too, that she was born in New York state. There is another tradition which people whisper with bated breath. It is that once, some time in the remote and shadowy past, Dr. Mary had a husband, whom she tried a while, and finding he was not agreeable, repudiated him with scorn, and there after went her peerless way alone. But if so, before she left him she had him so well trained that he would not talk.

Dr. Mary Walker has been ever since the war one of the curiosities of the capital, like the Washington monument and the United States senate. This is because she wears trousers and a man's frock coat, and a hat half male and half female. She does not look bad in this costume. On the contrary, with her small feet and delicate features she really looks right out; but the average herd of humanity doesn't see that sort of thing every day, therefore it arches its back and howls.

Dr. Mary did good and unselfish work in the army hospitals during the war, for which she has not been paid to this day. The newspapers that have been gey and cat-hauling the slim, nervous little woman for the past twenty-five years have been in rather small business.

WORK!

This is the Question of the Hour.

A Big Strike of Harness Makers at Cincinnati--The Industrial News of the Day.

A Fierce Fire is Raging and Devouring the Lumber Yards at Wausau.

TEN HOURS

Rule in the Door and Sash Factories.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Nearly all the sash, door and blind factories resumed on the ten hour plan this morning. A majority of the men returned to work. Two factories are still working on the eight hour plan, but expect to return to the ten hour rule in a few days.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—There is such a scarcity of miners on the Monongehela river that less than one-third the mines between McKeesport and Brownsville are in full operation.

HARNESS MAKERS STRIKE.

CINCINNATI, May 24.—About 600 harness makers struck to-day for an advance in wages. They had been working eight hours a day, but are not satisfied with the wages they received. They demand an increase of from 15 to 20 per cent.

THE MEN WON.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—The board of arbitration chosen to settle the difference between the street car men and their employers, made an award this afternoon sustaining the demands of the men for twelve hours work.

FIRE! FIRE!

Big Blaze in the Wausau Lumber District.

WAUSAU, Wis., May 24.—A disastrous fire broke out here this afternoon, raging furiously in the lumber district. B. G. Plummer's mills and yards have been swept away. Other yards are certain to go. Several buildings have also been burned. No estimate of loss given.

A NEW ONE.

Six Comets Now Visible in the Heavens.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 24.—Prof. W. R. Brooks, of Phelps, N. Y., reports to the Warner observatory here the discovery of a new comet. It is large but faint. Its position is as follows: Right ascension, 11 degrees, 51 minutes, 15 seconds; right declination, north 8 degrees, 55 minutes, 15 seconds. Dr. Lewis Swift says: "As this is not an expected comet, unless it is the old Bois comet of 1815, which is expected about this time, Prof. Brooks is entitled to another comet prize of $100. There are six comets now visible."

Bad Work with Dynamite.

DETROIT, May 22.—The ill-feeling between the Saginaw lumber men and the Isabella county mill owners over the obstruction of navigation is very strong. The log drivers took possession of Woodin's dam and when the men interfered the log drivers threw two of them into the river. This morning a dynamite cartridge exploded under the dam of Barris Brothers, doing much damage.

New Temperance Movement.

COLUMBUS, May 22.—The state non partisan temperance union was organized yesterday, with Dr. O. Cone, Akron, president, and O. D. Cotton, secretary. It is organized to insist on a better execution of the laws restraining and regulating the liquor traffic.

He Skips the Country.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Charles H. Reed, who defended Guiteau, has been charged with misappropriating a check for $1,500 belonging to Wm. Campbell. He was yesterday released from jail and is believed to have fled the country.

Willie, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Stoussieffer, 82 West Main street, died last evening of brain fever.

LOCAL LINES.

Mr. E. L. Crow is at Indianapolis.

Mrs. Simon Hass and daughter, of Napoleon, Ohio, were in the city yesterday.

A stable on Ohio street was unroofed by a stroke of lightning Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollenbeck left this morning for New York, thence to sail to Europe.

Mrs. Frank H. McKinnie and her pretty little daughter, of Columbus, O., are in the city.

Trumbull, the colored M. E. college student, was on trial before the mayor to-day for insulting a German girl.

Ambrose Geary is confined to his home by a severe gash on his right foot. A wagon ran over the limb Saturday evening.

A horse driven by a son of Herman Tapp, indulged in a furious runaway to-day, but encountered a lamp post and fell.

Sir Knights F. N. Kollock and C. E. Graves left at noon for Rochester, Ind., to institute a uniform rank, Knights of Pythias.

The case of Herman Michael, administrator, vs. H. W. Mordhurst for $5,000 damages, is on trial before a jury in the superior court.

Professors Gart Shober and Dan Stark were at Warsaw yesterday in the interest of the band tournament. They report entirely too much water at that resort.

Professor Bristol's sixteen horses arrived this morning by Adams express from Huntingdon, Pa. The express charges for transportation were only the trifling sum of $250.

Prof. Bristol's educated horses open a week's engagement at the Temple to-night. The professor made a street parade this afternoon and would have had Spiegel's band, but the musicians refused to walk.

Hon. Dennis O'Day, of Lake township, is in the city to-day. Mr. O'Day says this is the most promising spring for everything that is raised on a farm that he has seen during his thirty-three years residence in Allen county.

The ladies of the Congregational church give an ice cream and strawberry festival at the residence of Colonel C. A. Munson to-morrow evening. Mrs. Dick Meyer will receive the guests and a public invitation is extended.

Rev. W. H. McFarland, of the Second Presbyterian church, has been tendered a two months vacation, which he will accept, and make a trip to Europe. Mr. McFarland has been in feeble health for some time, and he hopes by this trip to be greatly benefited.

Mr. W. D. Maier announces himself to-day as a democratic candidate for re-nomination for county clerk. Mr. Maier is the present occupant of the office, and has had some twelve years experience as assistant clerk. He is most capable, thorough, an agreeable, willing servant, and a democrat through and through. He has a great personal following.

No Performance To-night.

The following dispatch was received by Manager Wilkinson late this afternoon.

MUNCIE Ind., Depot 2:13 p. m. Manager Wilkinson, Academy, Fort Wayne.

My baggage was left at Terre Haute. Can't open to-night. Railroad to blame. Everything will be all right for Tuesday night.

O. P. Sisson.

Manager "Little Nugget."

The company is one of the best on the road and they would have been greeted by a crowded house. They will be here, however, this evening and their engagement will positively open to-morrow night.

A Brilliant Wedding.

Last Sunday was a big day for our little village. It was the occasion of a brilliant wedding. Miss Annie McCormick, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Rev. T. H. McCormick, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. David Houser, of Kendallville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Blaney, in the presence of quite a select party of admiring friends. We learn that the young couple intend going to housekeeping immediately. While we are sorry to lose in Mrs. Houser one of our most estimable young ladies, we congratulate Mr. Houser on his success in securing a gem "more precious than rubies." May their married life be one long summer day of happiness without a cloud to dim its horizon.

Poe, Ind., May 20.

FRIGHT!

Seizes Hold of the Oil Speculators,

Who Drop Their Stocks at the Sight of News from the Cameron Well, an Hour Now.

FEVERISH!

Is the Pulse of the Pittsburg Oil Market.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—Another heavy break in oil this morning was caused by a big strike at the Cameron well, in the Washington district. The market opened weak and panicky at 66½ and quickly fell to 63½, which was four cents lower than Saturday's close. The news created the greatest excitement in oil circles large blocks of certificates were thrown on the market. There were no failures, however, and at 11 o'clock prices had rallied to 64½. The Cameron well is located three miles west of Washington borough and not far from the Smith and Dyer wells. It started off yesterday at a rate of 5,000 barrels a day and is now doing 147 barrels an hour.

Hard on Maxwell.

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—A fellow-prisoner named McDonald testified to-day that Maxwell confessed to him that he killed Preller in a quarrel at the Southern hotel.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Wheat, 1½¢ lower and active. No. 2 red, June, 86½¢. Corn, lower; Western 35¢ at 47. Oats, quiet and firm. Western at 38½¢.

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Wheat, weaker at 75¢. Corn, steady at 35½¢. Oats, steady at 28¢.

Burial Customs in Tibet.

The Tibetans have four ways in which they perform the obsequies of the dead. The souls of wealthy people here, as elsewhere, require a good deal of ceremony and prayer under the auspices of the ecclesiastics, in fact, as much of both as the estate can pay for. In practice no less will suffice, whatever dogma may assert.—1. If a man of means dies unfortunately during the time crops are standing, it would bring hail were he disposed of at that time, so he is pickled to await the harvest. This is done by tying his head between his knees and putting him, surrounded with salt, into a bag. The bag is put in a basket, and the basket is sewn up well in cloth to prevent unpleasantness, and he is placed in the stable under the first floor to await the harvest and the suitable day. Then, the day being chosen for his incineration, the ecclesiastics commence their prayers, etc., as many days ahead of the day fixed upon as the wealth of the family will allow. The day having arrived, he is cremated with further ceremony on a pile of wood saturated with melted butter to make it burn quickly. After that there only remains a good dinner to the ecclesiastics, and the settlement of their bill.—2. For very important personages, chiefs, and high ecclesiastics, the body is carried to the top of a mountain after the usual protracted ceremonies, and then gongs are beaten and fires are lighted to attract vultures and wild dogs. These know only too well what the signals indicate. The head ecclesiastic then cuts the body into very small portions, and throws the pieces, bit by bit, to the dogs and vultures. When nothing is left but the big bones, these are powdered up and mixed with barley meal (Tsong pa), and then the mixture is thrown after the flesh. The highest token of respect paid to a very exalted personage consists in the head ecclesiastic (after having gone through the above process) mixing up a cup of Tsong pa with his fingers, without having washed his hands, and then eating it himself.—3. The most ordinary course is to take the corpse to a river or to a hill, and there place it on the ground, naked, and tied by the head, the body is then cut in two with a sword to further assist the wild animals in their office, and it is then left alone. If the deceased desired this class of funeral, any ceremonies that may be performed (provided he could pay for any) take place at his house, and not where the body is taken to.—4. In the case of a poor person the body is carried, usually at night, and thrown into the nearest river, if there be one. Failing a convenient stream sufficiently large to carry away the corpse, it is treated as in the third case, minus all rites and ceremonies.

TROTTER HORSES.

The year 1824 marks the day when 240 was considered a remarkable trotting record for a mile. Maud S, the present champion, came to the front in 1880 with 2:10, while her record is now 2:03. Sporting men claim that the horse will yet be bred which can go a mile in two minutes, while others hold that Maud S's time cannot be beaten.

Not less surprising than this rapid reduction in the trotters' time is the speed with which Athlophoros has grown into public favor. As a single instance of its efficacy may be mentioned the case of Mr. W. D. Murphy, of No. 310 Yandes street, Indianapolis, Indiana, who tells this story:

"I first contracted rheumatism in the war, in which I served four years and six months. After returning from service the disease seemed to assume a periodical form. I would have at least two attacks every year, and between these attacks I would suffer all the time. Often I could not walk or get out of bed, and the disease would catch me in the legs, so that while standing I would feel as if I were about to fall. It was one afternoon that I took my first dose of Athlophoros, and then at night I took another. I slept soundly that night. The next morning when I awoke I had no pain. I took a few doses more, but in all used only about two-thirds of a bottle before my rheumatism was gone. That was over a year ago, and since then I have had only a slight twinge. So great is my confidence in Athlophoros that I have recommended it to many different people. Among them is a Mrs. Wright, a lady seventy years old, who was entirely rid of all her pain by the medicine after suffering from rheumatism for fifteen years. In every instance it gave entire satisfaction."

Mr. R. Forster, a dealer in furniture at No. 320 Main St., Terre Haute, Ind., who tells the following:

"I have used Athlophoros with the very best satisfaction. I had neuralgia for years, and used about every medicine for it without obtaining any relief until I began taking Athlophoros. I was told of the remedy by a friend who bought a bottle of it for me, and I took some that same night. The next day I was as free from pain as if I had never had neuralgia. I went out and spent several hours in a walk which the day before would have been misery to me. During the summer months I am never troubled with neuralgia, but if I should be again I would certainly use Athlophoros, of whose merits I am fully convinced. I have a bottle on hand, but have no use for it at present. I have recommended it to several persons, and have yet to learn of a single instance where it did not accomplish its mission of good work."

Miss Kate Warren, of Stockwell, Ind., who says that she has not been able to effect a complete cure in her case because of inability to obtain Athlophoros when she desired to use it, nevertheless gives this testimony to its merits:

"I have used Athlophoros and have been very much benefited by it. I heartily recommend it to all I meet who are suffering from that dreadful disease, rheumatism."

If you cannot get Athlophoros of your druggist, we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded by him to buy elsewhere, but order at once from us, as directed: ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

Ladies

Do you want a pure, blooming complexion? If so, a few applications of Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM will gratify you to your heart's content. It does away with sallowness, Redness, Pimples, Blotches, and all diseases and imperfections of the skin. It overcomes the flushed appearance of heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes a lady of THIRTY appear but TWENTY; and so natural, gradual, and perfect are its effects, that it is impossible to detect its application.

33,000 ACRES MINNE-OTA Lands are to be sold at Public Auction. The Trustee of the Estate of Jay Cooke & Co., in Bankruptcy, will offer for sale to the highest bidder 33,000 acres of valuable lands yet remaining. The real estate must be disposed of immediately so as to settle with creditors. Such an opportunity is rarely offered for a safe and paying investment. Sale takes place at the Chicago Real Estate Board, Room 5, 161 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill., Wednesday, May 26, at 12 noon. Each tract sold separately. Address W. J. Barney & Co., 37 Tribune Building, Chicago, Ill., or to James O. Young, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, April 26d&wlm

There Are a Few Druggists who care more to make a large profit on a worthless article than to wait for the prosperity that ultimately results from honest dealing. These are the men who when asked for a Benson's Capsule Plaster, will recommend some cheap and trashy substitute or imitation, saying it is "just as good." Sometimes they will do up and sell the miserable imitation without remark, allowing the customer to suppose he has Benson's. If the valueless plaster is returned, they will join with the druggist in mistake;—if not, he has done a good stroke of business. The public are cautioned against John and all his ilk. Buy of respectable druggists only. The genuine Benson's plaster has the "Three Seals" trade mark and the word "Capsule" cut in the centre. 17-47

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress, 12th District,
HON. ROBERT LOWRY, of Allen.

HON. JOHN KELLY's health is said to be steadily improving.

The democratic congressional offices in Indiana are warmly contested for this year.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has purchased a cottage home for himself and bride near Washington.

The estimate is that the membership of the United States senate represents $162,000,000 of wealth.

The democrats of Indiana are solidifying, and the breaches that federal patronage made are being cemented by that love of party supremacy that surmounts personal feelings.

The race between Hon. Joseph E. McDonald and Gov. Isaac P. Gray for the United States senate is already inaugurated. The contest will be exceedingly interesting.

The republican district congressional convention is approaching. It is hoped there will not be such an unsightly scene as marked the Allen county central committee meeting some time ago.

A MINE-OWNER near Sheridan, Montana, reports the discovery of a new metal. It carries considerable gold in places, but the latter can not be separated from the strange material by any process of working gold ores. The mineral when melted is as white as silver, but much harder.

MINISTER PENDLETON is too greatly prostrated by the death of his wife to be able to cross the Atlantic and attend the obsequies. Besides an official assurance of the sympathy of Emperor William, he has received a vast number of cablegrams of condolence.

JEFFERSON HARMAN, of Owingsville, Kentucky, was clearing a hillside of bushes not long ago. His ax became entangled in grapevines, and in his efforts to extricate it he stumbled and fell over a ledge of rocks fifteen feet high. It was not much of a fall, but Jefferson managed before he struck bottom to cut off his nose and most of his upper lip, and to knock out nearly all of his teeth and break his jaw.

THE names conjured up by Dickens are more than matched by recent subscribers to the New York World, from a list of which the following are selected: Maria Pickles, Cynthia Neiderfrank-einsteinhauser, William F. Pet-Rish, John J. Cowhogg, Laura Loofborough, Maggie Mussmaker, J. Tyranny, Mary Bigghost, Fanny Vinegar, Susie Souze, Nora B. Freelove, Mattie B. Toogood, Mollie Whitebeck, Phenia Sufficool, Effie Blunk, Cora Coon, Viola Eystone, Rayte Shivers, Pearl Shad, Frankie Sample, John George Dingledog, O. D. Pancake, Dick Turnipseed.

SEVERAL years ago Miss Alice McCauley, the handsome daughter of a rich Californian, while in Europe fell in love with and married Count Valentin, an attractive Italian nobleman. The honeymoon was brief, and soon after they reached California a suit for divorce was instituted by the Countess on the grounds of cruelty and infidelity. The suit failed. Now she is suing to recover $10,000 which she alleges her husband has appropriated out of her separate property. She is also suing for $2,000 worth of grain and hay which the Countess says the Count cut from her ranch to feed his own stock.

ACCORDING to the calculations made by a scientific writer lately, it requires a prodigious amount of vegetable matter to form a layer of coal, the estimate being that it would really take a million years to form a coal-bed one hundred feet thick. The United States has an area of between 300,000 and 400,000 square miles of coal fields, 100,000,000 tons of coal being mined from these fields in one year, or enough to run a ring around the earth at the equator five and one-half feet wide and five and one-half feet thick, the quantity being sufficient to supply the whole world for a period of 1,500 to 2,000 years.

DEATH OF GENERAL WARD.

Gen. Durbin Ward died at Lebanon, Ohio, Saturday afternoon and from the sphere of politics and public affairs is removed a brilliant man. His eloquence and logic assisted many men to high public places, but, singularly, not himself. He has often spoken in Fort Wayne and his face and figure are familiar here. General Ward is a Kentuckian by birth, having been born in that state in 1819. In 1843 he was admitted to the Ohio bar in Cincinnati, after having read law in the office of Hon. Thomas Corwin. General Ward is the son of Rev. Dr. Ward, a famous preacher. General Ward won fame as a soldier. He enlisted as a private in the Twelfth Ohio Infantry (three months' service), and at his discharge was promoted to major, and assigned to the Seventeenth infantry. At Chicamauga, being then colonel of the gallant seventeenth, he was severely wounded and incapacitated for further service, whereupon he was retired as brevet brigadier general. He has been prominent for years as a leading member of the democratic party. Always an active worker, he has never had the good fortune of serving the people in an elective office. Frequently a candidate for governor, congressman and United States senator, he has always failed of nomination by his party. After the war he opened a law office in Washington, remaining there for two years. In 1866, while still in Washington, he was again nominated for congress in the Third Ohio district, but was defeated by Gen. Robert C. Schenck. From 1866 to 1869 he served as United States attorney for the southern district of Ohio. General Ward was married November 27, 1866, to Miss Elizabeth Probasco, but he has no children.

AN anarchist who is a member of Group No. 2, New York, recently said: "I don't know that the public have any right to know what our real strength is. We are stronger and better organized than people have any idea of. We have a college in New Jersey where the members are taught how to use dynamite and Greek fire. We have rifle corps organized, not to provoke a fight, but to be able to cope successfully with the police and militia when the struggle which is bound to come is on us. The Chicago fight is simply the first gun in the revolution. Our brothers there did nobly, but they were not as well prepared as they might have been, or more of the blue-coats would have got their last dose. Our motto is, 'Neither God nor Master,' and our doctrine can be simply stated as 'Down with Church, State, Capital, Knights of Labor, and Other Kindred Villains.'"

BILIOUSNESS Is very prevalent at this season, the symptoms being bitter taste, offensive breath, coated tongue, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness, loss of appetite. If this condition is allowed to continue, serious consequences may follow. By promptly taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, a fever may be avoided or premature death prevented. It is a positive cure for biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY. MONDAY, MAY 24, 1886.

THE LAND OF THE MORNING CALM.

Cities Within Which No Priest May Set Foot.

"I ask you," says the author, "to go with me to a land whose life for ages has been a mystery—a land which from time unknown has kept aloof, apart, so that the very possibility of such seclusion is itself a mystery, and which only yesterday opened her gates. For cycles and cycles she has been in the world, but not for it. Her people have been born, have lived, have died, oblivious to all that was passing around them. They might have been denizens of another planet for aught they knew of the history of this. And the years glided into centuries, and the centuries grew to be numbered by tens, and still the veil remained as tightly drawn as at the beginning. It was but last year that Corea stepped as a debutante into the society of the world."

Having thus whetted our curiosity by a method as artistic as could have been adopted by an Oriental storyteller, the author tells us where this wonderful land lies. On a large map of the world there is a peninsula just to the west of the Japanese islands. This is the peninsula of Corea. It was only in 1876 that the Japanese succeeded in making the first treaty by which Corea had ever deigned to acknowledge the existence of the outer world. Whence came its people? Long before the idea of the prime meridian had entered the minds of men the races of Asia put the birthplace of the day where we have agreed to find it. They shaped their course to the sea from which the sun rose. The Aryans went west, certain of the Tyrian peoples struck east, but when they arrived at the seacoast their advance was stopped, and they could only sit down and dream of an earthly paradise beyond the water. The Japanese at last ventured on the sea and risked their way across the strait that separates what have become their islands from the Korean peninsula. But beyond these islands was nothing save the everlasting blue. Every morning the sun rose from out the ocean, and so they named the land "The Day's Beginning" long ago in the morning of the ages. A new horde from the north next came forth, carried in the land, became part of it. Year after year, and century after century, passed away. The sun rose for them in peaceful splendor, and its beams flooded the valleys and nestled on the land. "Morning Calm" they called it.

There are three treaty ports in Corea, and by the revised Japanese treaty of 1880 and the subsequent treaties with America, England, and Germany these three places have been opened to foreign trade—that is, when there is such a thing. The most important place in Corea is Seoul, and this is the chief place to which our guide takes us. After having come to the United States, his native country, from Japan with the Korean special mission in the autumn of 1883, he went to Corea, reaching it in December of the same year, and spent the winter in Seoul as the guest of his majesty. He describes very humorously and graphically the two days' ride in a palanquin from the port of Chemulpo to Seoul, and says that when he first saw the walled city he never beheld anything that so completely realized the fancies of his boyish dreams—the imaginations of the time when, as a lad, his thoughts sped away from the pages of the "Arabian Nights" to the dreamy Orient. It is, however, when the author comes to discuss the form and principle of government in Corea, the patriarchal principle which prevails in family life, the position of woman, the want of religion, and other kindred topics, that he is seen at his best as guide, philosopher, and friend.

The king of Corea is an absolute monarch. Divine by right, he is omnipotent through heredity. But his will, though law, is transmitted to the people through an elaborate system of magistrates. One man often holds many offices, but literature is the only portal to political power, and only after a man has passed several literary examinations and received his diploma can he be appointed to office.—Philadelphia Record.

A Beautiful Blow. "One day in 1867," says Mr. Ed. Johnson, of the Boston Herald, "I was standing in front of the old Logan House at Altoona, Pa., admiring a superb-looking man who was pacing up and down the walk, meditating, presumably, as the rest of us were, on the length of minutes when one is waiting for a delayed train. Presently a big, broad-shouldered molder, who seemed to recognize the superb gentleman, shambled up near him and muttered something which was evidently intended to offend him. The superb gentleman, however, paid no more attention to it than to look rather sharply at the molder and pass on. Soon the molder repeated the performance, with about the same result, and the lookers-on began to wonder what it all meant. By and by the molder, evidently mistaking the superb gentleman's indifference to him for cowardice, stopped squarely before him and said something which would not look well in print about 'the d—d Yankee general.' "I never saw a handsomer blow in my life. It landed squarely on the jaw of the molder and seemed to raise him neatly and gracefully into the air and then stretch him tidily at full length on the platform several feet away. The superb gentleman looked at the back of his hand with an expression of disgust as if condemning the hand for what it had done, and then resumed his promenade as if nothing had happened. The last I saw of the molder his friends were helping him away, but I frequently saw Gen. Hancock after that, and came to know that he was always the same kind of man—slow to take offense, but wonderfully effective in punishing one who did succeed in offending."

MECHANICAL.

A PATENT has been secured for carrying natural gas safely long distances. It is a process of mixing air with gas in such proportions that, while the danger of explosion is taken away, all the heating quality still remains. It will also leave the air of the rooms in which it is used in a healthy condition.

PROF. CLEVELAND ABBE anticipates the time when each citizen shall have the right to pay ten cents and demand his special weather telegram, precisely as he pays his two cents and demands to have his letter carried by mail. A few years ago the highest attainable proportion of correct prognostications was about eighty per cent.; now eighty-five per cent. is expected.

This recipe for cementing iron is given by an English mechanical journal: Take equal parts of sulphur and white lead, with about a sixth of borax; incorporate the three thoroughly. When about to apply it wet it with strong sulphuric acid, and place a thin layer of it between the two pieces of iron and press them together. In five days it will be dry, all traces of the cement having vanished, and the iron will have the appearance of having been welded together.

SIR WILLIAM THOMPSON has recently calculated that the average size of a chemical atom is not less than six, and not greater than sixty, billionths of a cubic inch. It has also been calculated that in a cubic inch of air there are 300,000,000,000,000,000,000 atoms. Hence the cubic inch of air is by no means full, and it is possible for them to move eighteen miles a minute, and collide against each other 8,500,000 times a second, as has also been lately calculated that they do.

The latest thing in steam bicycles is the invention of a New Jersey man. The fuel used is gasoline, and is carried in a tank holding one pint, which is enough to run the engine an hour. The boiler is made of copper and brass, of the drop water tube type, with fourteen half-inch tubes ten inches long. It is a complete boiler, with anti-burning jacket, safety-valve, steam and water gauges, etc. The water-tank is in the form of a globe, and is fitted with a little pump which feeds the boiler. The engine proper, including driving pulley, weighs about twenty pounds. The whole outfit weighs only eighteen pounds, and it is supposed to carry the rider along at the rate of twelve or fifteen miles an hour.

Goodies are made to a considerable extent in Saxony from a textile fibre obtained from the needles of the fir tree. The needles, young and green, are dried and subjected to a settling and fermenting process similar to that in use for flax, which softens the woody parts and loosens them from the fibre, though the complete separation is only obtained after a lengthy boiling by steam. During this boiling a by-product appears, called fir-wood oil, which is similar to turpentine. The fibre is passed through a milling machine like those used for woolen cloth, and is carded and spun like cotton. Generally the carded fibre is mixed with a certain proportion of cotton or wool, and thus a kind of merino yarn is produced, which is worked in the hosiery frames into singlets, drawers, stockings, etc., these fabrics being then sold as anti-rheumatic and as a preventive of gout.

The American Architect makes the suggestion that possibly the loss of the Oregon may have been due to the character of the steel plates of which the vessel was constructed, quite as much as the force of the blow which caused the break in her side. According to present ideas, it says, a steel plate, to replace with advantage the wrought-iron plates formerly used, should contain so slight a percentage of carbon as to be soft, almost inelastic, and incapable of hardening by dipping, when red-hot, in cold water. Steel plates of this kind show similar softness, toughness and strength to wrought iron, and should not have been so easily broken through as the plates of the Oregon were. But a few more pounds of carbon to the ton will make the plates far stronger, stiffer and more elastic, but also much more brittle; and since the ideas of engineers in regard to mild steel have somewhat changed since the Oregon was built, it may be that the brittleness of her plates contributed to the disaster which caused her loss.

Hunting Stories.

A gentleman by the name of Johnson, of Daviess County, Indiana, who has been quite a hunter, told a story that once on a time he saw a fine turkey gobbler on a tree, and, taking sure aim, he fired. Being a good shot, and the turkey not far off, he was surprised that it flew away. Going under the tree on which the turkey sat, it was found that he had shot the fowl's head clear from the body, while the latter had flown away.

A bystander declared it was true, for, said he, "I was once hunting in the same woods Johnson shot the turkey's head off and the turkey flew away, and by the light of the moon discovered a very large, fine coon. Taking a good aim, I fired, and down came—"

"The coon?" inquired several voices.

"No, his tail. I had shot it clear from the body."

"And did you get the coon?"

"N-o-o-o. It skipped by the light of the moon."—Detroit Free Press.

Tornado Points Located.

In a report to the French Academy of Sciences of the 172 tornadoes recorded in the United States in 1884, J. O. S. Faye considers it established that there is a definite portion of an area of low barometer most favorable to tornadoes. The Signal Service reporters are now endeavoring to determine this "dangerous octant" still more accurately. A memorable day in the history of tornadoes was February 19, 1884, when no less than forty-five were recorded in the Southeastern States, attended with a loss of 800 lives, 2,500 injured, 10,000 houses and buildings destroyed, and 15,000 people left homeless.

"Your Athletes" sells well and gives entire satisfaction. I always recommend it for rheumatism or neuralgia," says A. D. Loar, a druggist, of Bloomington, Illinois, whose experience is identical with that of hundreds of other druggists.

How an Ice-Yacht is Sailed.

An ice-yacht is also sailed with her sheet trimmed flat aft. With the wind dead astern, however, the reader may very naturally infer that only the actual speed of the wind can be attained. In a race several miles to windward and return, the contestants do not point straight for the stake on the home-stretch by any means. You will see them sheering from one side of the river to the other, seemingly under the control of very erratic steersmen. Not at all! Each of those men is getting the best paces out of his boat. As soon as he finds the wind astern he sheers off to port or starboard, as judgment dictates, his boat gains headway, and now comes in the sailor's skill. Presumably he knows his boat's peculiarities and he puts her on exactly her best sailing angle. When he feels "in his bones" that, with the existing wind, she has attained her highest possible speed, he gently puts his helm up, and away she flies with her acquired momentum dead to leeward through the wind. Sometimes she will keep this up for half a mile or more, and as soon as the trained nerves of the helmsman tell him that she is losing headway he puts her on the wind again, and inspires her with a fresh burst of speed. Such a race, it will readily be understood, calls out the highest qualities of skill and judgment on the part of contestants. Indeed, the result of a race to leeward depends on skill pure and simple far more than does a race where the course can be laid both ways with the wind abeam.—Outing.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a manner peculiar to itself, the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. You will find this wonderful remedy effective where other medicines have failed. Try it now. It will purify your blood, regulate the digestion, and give new life and vigor to the entire body. "Hood's Sarsaparilla did me great good. I was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." Mrs. G. E. SIMMONS, Cohoes, N. Y. "I suffered three years from blood poison. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and think I am cured." Mrs. M. J. DAVIS, Brockport, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence. "Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me new." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass. "Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." L. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Fruit House Bulletin

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full supplies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Down 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

Best Rio Coffee down to 10c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12 1/2c a pound; Government Java, 20c; Roasted Java 25c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

no more a luxury to buy Teas. When they were $1 and $2 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 25c per pound then they come within the reach of all. We are enabled to sell, so low simply in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant which is at least 10 to 20 per pound. Young Hyson, good, 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Gunpowder, good, 30c; choice, 40; best 50c; Oolong or Black Tea 20c; choice, 30c; best 50c; Japan Tea, uncolored, 30c; choice, 40; best 50c; English Breakfast, good, 30c; best 50c per pound.

SUGARS---White and Yellow, Down 1-2c.

Choice Yellow, 5 1/2c; Best Extra C, 6c; Coffee A, Standard, 6 1/2c; Crushed and Powdered 7c; Cut Loaf and Granulated, 7c.

Syrups Reduced 10c a Gal.

Best Golden Drip, 40c per gallon; best Sorghum, 40c per gallon; best New Orleans, Molasses, 30c.

SMOKED MEATS AND PICKLED PORKS.

Best sugar cured hams, 10c per pound; Sugar cured shoulders, 6c per pound; Pickled pork 6c per pound; Breakfast bacon, best, 9c per pound.

SALT AND SMOKED FISH.

MONDAY, MAY 24, 1886.

THE CITY.

This month has five Sundays.
Col. Jim Humphrey, of the Bliss house, Bluffton, is in the city.

The attendance yesterday at the various churches of the city was large.

Joseph Schmucker, 110 West Creighton avenue, won the fine Gendron bicycle in the Sam, Pete & Max presentation scheme.

Lightning struck the electric light works at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, de-ranging the circuit and leaving the west end in darkness.

Johnny Wilt, whose parents live at the corner of Wilt and VanBuren streets, was run over by a horse and buggy
Saturday evening. He was not seriously injured.

Rev. S. A. Northrop leaves this week for New Jersey, to attend a Baptist convention. His pulpit will be filled Sunday by the Baptist minister from Huntington.

Business on the Nickel Plate is dull this month. To date the majority of engineers and firemen have not put in over nine or ten days, although eighteen working days have passed.

The frost of last week was more injurious than was at first expected. Apples, especially, appear to have greatly suffered from it. The young fruit is rapidly dropping from the trees.

Rev. S. A. Northrop addressed the Fort Wayne Rifles yesterday morning.
The company formed at their rooms and marched to the church in a body. They make a handsome appearance when in uniform.

The water works trustees meet tonight to talk over pumping house affairs.
There are many applications for the place made vacant by the resignation of Morris Zollinger, whose management is not satisfactory.

The business of our city is reviving,
and the increased trade of the past week
has greatly encouraged our merchants.
Saturday evening the streets were thronged with people, most all of whom were buying something.

There is a great demand for good carpenters at present. Men who are capable of doing fine work, such as finishing the interior of buildings, are largely sought for by our contractors, and good workmen get steady employment and good wages the year through.

Parents should keep their small children off the streets, if possible. It is a common thing for fifteen or twenty little ones to gather at the corners where there is a light, and the driver of a spirited horse who succeeds in passing the crowd without running over two or three is fortunate.

County Treasurer Dalman is at home from Indianapolis. He paid into the state treasury $48,854 and drew out $26,380 as Allen county's share of the school fund. At the regular settlement
Mr. Dalman gets some $20,000 more.
He simply held out $26,380 to avoid the cost of interchange.

It has been decided to hold the Allen county Sunday school convention at the First Presbyterian church, this city, beginning Monday evening, June 14th, and continuing to Tuesday, June 15th.
The executive committee on entertainment is to consist of one member from each Sunday school in the city. Superintendents of our city schools are requested to send at at once, the name of some one to represent their school on this committee, to M. P. Longacre, city.
It is hoped every Sunday school in the city will aid in this work, and report promptly.

The superior court jury was convened at noon.

Captain Dideon has lately improved the Tremont house at a considerable outlay.

The weather indications for Indiana are: Local rains, no decided change in temperature.

Mr. W. B. Beamer, the largest hearted man on the Wabash system, spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. C. B. Woodworth is entertaining her pretty niece, Miss Lolo Gaylor, of San Antonio, Texas.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the R. R. Y. M.
C. A. meets Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, standard time.

The bans of Engineer Tom Telly to a pretty young lady were announced at the Cathedral yesterday.

The will of Sarah Mayhew was filed to-day. She leaves her property to her husband and children.

The suit of John Dreibeis vs. John Goldstone, for a commission, is on trial before the circuit court jury.

Henry Kimmel, of George Bowen's force, has accepted a place with Bradley & McNulty, at Danville, Ill.

Mrs. Thomas Cox, Mrs. Dr. Eldred and Miss Fannie Lewis, of Chicago, are the guests of Mrs. Will P. Breen.

Mr. T. E. Ellison has returned from an extensive trip south. He visited his father in his new Kentucky home.

Very Rev. Father Brammer is again entirely well and preached an eloquent sermon at the Cathedral yesterday morning.

Several men employed in paving South Calhoun street, quit this morning to get higher wages. Ambrose Geary is contractor for that work.

The beer gardens and forests swarmed with picnickers yesterday. The shower in the afternoon moistened many of the picnic seekers.

General Manager Talmage and Su, er-intendent Stevens, of the Wabash road passed through here yesterday on an inspection tour to Detroit.

The picnic of the Fort Wayne Turn-verein at the Tivola garden, yesterday afternoon, was well attended, but the rain spoiled the festivities.

Thirty-two quick delivery letters were handled in the Fort Wayne postoffice last week. The two delivery boys can earn on an average $7 a week.

The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad company is fitting its line between Pittsburg and Chicago with interlocking switches and signals.

Mr. Ed J. Golden is giving away Dunlap hats and everything in his line. It is all because of the advent of a sweet, black-eyed girl baby at his home.

Mr. W. W. Rockhill, the city clerk, is confined to his home by malarial fever.
Mr. Rockhill has a legion of friends who will be sorry to hear that he is sick.

The regular cottage meeting of the R.
Y. M. C. A. will be held at Mr.
Christian Laible's, 96 DeWald street, on Tuesday evening at 7:30, standard time.

The county commissioners are inspecting bridges in Jackson, Jefferson and Monroe townships. Auditor Louis Greibel accompanies the commissioners on their trip.

Sarah Mayhew, the wife of a well known farmer, was buried yesterday from Brown's chapel on the St. Joe road. She was fifty years old and died of consumption.

D. C. Fisher, as trustee, and George B. Place sue Henry J. Trentman and twelve others to foreclose a mortgage for $15,000. Bell & Morris are attorneys for the claimants.

Eugene Nus, a vagrant, Charles Hukey and Orville Adams, drunkards, were arraigned at police court this morning. The vag was let go, but the other fellows went over.

The damage suit of Tom Demosthenes Weaver vs. Tom Ahern, has been dismissed from Judge O'Rourke's court.
Mr. Weaver sued for $1,000 damage because of a broken leg.

The affairs of the law firm of Coombs,
Bell & Morris were settled to-day. Judge Coombs will retire from active life, but will let his fancy turn to poultry raising, in which his son, Tom Coombs, is engaged.

The "Nugget" company open at the Academy this evening. There is just sufficient plot to the piece to make it interesting. After the first act it merges into recitations that keep the audience in a happy humor until the close.

Joseph F. Getz and Louisa Parregey,
Nathan Coon and Ida LeMoy, Phillip
J. Mohr and Octavia L. Rank, Louis
Doctor and Lulia A. Soest, L. M.
Bloomington and Mary Rabus, Christopher McKerson and Flora B. Satton have been licensed to wed.

The afternoon service at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. was well attended and great interest prevailed among the members. A call was made for short testimonies and nearly every one present responded. The lecture room of the association has been enlarged and will be repared and decorated this week. It now has a much greater seating capacity.
One hundred and twenty-five can be accommodated with comfort.

The Academy and Temple close this week.

Rev. Bishop Rademacher left at noon for his home at Nashville, Tenn.

Charley King, the Cincinnati liquor tourist, is a guest of the Aveline house.

Professor Bristol's school of eighteen trick horses are cared for at Liggett's stable.

Mr. J. E. Pamphrey, of Columbus, Ohio, was in the city yesterday, the guest of friends.

Mrs. F. O. Stringer, of this city, was registered at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, to-day.

J. K. McCracken and his brother, from New York city, left this morning for Kansas City.

Meers Whitehead and Esmond intend to build a new business block on South
Calhoun street.

The local produce exchange is not doing a mammoth business. The speculators are few.

Sheriff Nelson has dispatched a messenger for Jane Chapman, who is cured at the state asylum.

The city council meets to-morrow night in regular session and will then fix the salaries of the city officers.

Frank Meegan, a Fort Wayne boy, who is associated in the commission business at Omaha, has opened a branch house at Kansas City.

The new Pittsburg time card will put on two trains on the division east from Fort Wayne. A train leaves here at 11
a. m. and returns at 7 p. m.

The funeral of William Chamberlain will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, 40 East Jefferson street. Friends are invited to attend without further notice.

Gen. Durbin Ward, who died at Lebanon, Ohio, Saturday, spoke here the day of the Blaine demonstration and fell a victim to the pickpockets who followed the Maine statesman. Mr. Ward was robbed of his watch and money, but friends here supplied his wants.

"Mrs. J. D. Searles, of Fort Wayne, formerly of this city, is in a very critical condition and her recovery is doubtful.
Her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Immell, is still with her. The lady has had several attacks of hemorrhage of the lungs," says the Huntington Democrat.

The city council will fix the salaries of its officers to-morrow night. This city is excellently officered and the council can afford to be liberal with the public servants. Their honesty no one questions, their capability no one can, and their zeal should receive the support it so richly deserves.

The grand lodge, F. and A. M., of Indianapolis, will meet in Masonic Temple, Indianapolis, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock and continue in session until Wednesday evening. Nearly 1,700 railroad tickets have been issued, and the attendance will be fully double that of any previous meeting.

Mr. Peter Certia and Miss Rose Mosier were married last evening at the residence of Mr. John Langohr. Mr. Certia is a popular gentleman and his wife a charming young lady, so that a host of friends wish them much joy and happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Certia are at home in a cozy cottage on the north side.

While in the Hamilton bank at noon to-day, Mr. O. L. Perry espied a pocket book lying on the outside desk without an owner. After asking the only other person in the place at that time as to its ownership, he promptly laid hands on it and turned it in to President McCulloch. The owner can get his wallet by calling at the bank.

"The grand lodge met on Wednesday.
The proposition of Fort Wayne lodge,
No. 14, to return to the initiatory for the transaction of lodge business, was overwhelmingly voted down. If two or more black balls are cast against an applicant for membership by initiation he is rejected; less than that number he is elected, and there can be but one ballot, and no postponement of the same," says the Indianapolis Journal.

Prof Louis F. Schultz, the violinist who won some fame here, is now a resident of Detroit, and the Free Press speaks in high praise of a series of concerts given by the Schultz quartet. Mr.
Schultz was at the Leipzig academy with Prof. Ed Noll, of this city, and he sends Mr. Gust Bruder accounts of his triumph at Detroit. Prof. Wallenstein, another Fort Wayne musician, is at Grand Rapids and he is up in musical circles there.

Conductor T. J. Nixon, of the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad, has returned from attending the annual meeting of the Passenger Conductors' Life Insurance association of the United States, at Philadelphia. The affairs of association were found to be in bad condition. A large number of deaths had drained the resources and everything had sunk down. A new organization was effected. Mr. George Mogford, of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, was elected president and Mr. Nixon was elected a non-resident director. The convention resolved to go to work with new vigor and the association will undoubtedly take new life. The next convention will be held in Boston, next May.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Wm. Chamberlain.

Another honored citizen in the meridian of his life and manhood, has passed away to join the great majority on the other side. Mr. William Henry Chamberlain, chief clerk in the roadmaster's office of the Pittsburg railway, expired at the family residence, No. 40 East Jefferson street, at 8 o'clock last evening.
On Thursday, while engaged in his usual office work, deceased was stricken with paralysis. He was tenderly conveyed to his home, and hopes of his recovery were expressed by his physicians, but subsequently he was thrown into convulsions, which continuing, weakened him, so that he succumbed to natural physical exhaustion. Mr. Chamberlain was in some respects a remarkable man, in this, that he lived entirely within himself, although his entire life has been lived in this, the city of his birth. He had but few acquaintances comparatively, but those few were his devoted friends. Since the death of his father, in 1885, he has been the prop and mainstay of his mother and sisters, to whom he was devotedly attached. He had no taste for the ordinary pleasures of life, as he told our reporter but last week he had never been inside the Academy of Music in his life. The duties of his office and the domestic attractions of his home engrossed his entire time and attention.

Supt. Law, Mr. Higgins, Jackson, Simons, Walton and others, with whom for twenty-six years he has been intimately associated with in his official duties, speak of him as a man whose place it will be hard to fill. No better penman or accountant can be found in the city, whose mathematical calculations and solutions of intricate measurements in miles or quantities could be depended upon for absolute accuracy, and whose clerical work was so satisfactory to the great corporation in whose employ he has spent the best part of his days. Of a retiring disposition, a generous frank nature, it is those who knew him best who will mourn him most.

Deceased was born August 13, 1836.
He leaves a widowed mother, three sisters and one brother. Mrs. Mary Mulberry, one of the sisters residing at Big Rapids, Mich., arrived Saturday evening.
Another sister, from the same place, Mrs.
Maggie Legget, is expected this evening. The obsequies will be under the direction of the I. O. O. F., of which order he was an honored member.

THOMAS BRADBURY

Arrested for a Most Inhuman Crime.

Prosecutor Dawson, and his deputy,
Mr. Bittinger, held a secret investigation at their office Saturday, and the result was a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Bradbury on complaint of his twelve year old daughter. Sheriff Nelson arrested Bradbury out in Wayne township, yesterday, and lodged him in jail. His children charge him with inhuman, disgusting practices and the most revolting and nameless conduct, illustrating total depravity to perfection. Bradbury is known to the police and frequently solicits their assistance in recovering his wife, who shuns him. Bradbury used to be a prosperous Pleasant township farmer, but is now dissipated, and has been sleeping in stables and straw stacks. He will have a preliminary hearing as soon as the witnesses against him can come in.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

Fred Baumeister Behind the Bars for Grand Larceny.

Fred Baumeister is in jail and can proclaim that "justice surely overtakes the fugitive." Last July, almost a year ago, Baumeister stole a watch and some money from his bed fellow at the boarding house of Herman Meyers on John street. The men worked in the Bass foundry and were friends, but Baumeister fled from the city and wandered from place without ease of mind, finally coming home to find Sheriff Nelson as vigilant as a lark. Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Ed Claumeyer put irons on Baumeister and he is in jail to answer the charge of grand larceny. He is good for a sojourn at the lake side for robbing Henry Wehman.

Attention, Jeffersonians.

The new club rooms in the Stotz building, on Main street, are ready for occupancy and will be formally opened to-night. All the old Jeffersonians are invited to the parlors, and all democrats and their friends are equally welcome.

Memorial Day.

The joint committee on Memorial day will meet this evening at James E. Graham's office. Every member is requested to be present as important business will be transacted.

STORMS!

Central Indiana is Devastated.

A Storm of Hail and Rain Swept Over that Territory Last Evening.

And Houses, Trees and Growing Crops are Laid Low by its Fury.

VERY FIERCE.

The Hardest Storm of the Season in Indiana.

DANVILLE, Ind., May 24.—A terrible wind and rain storm passed through Hendricks county yesterday afternoon doing great damage. Many cattle and horses were killed by falling trees and many houses had all the windows torn out by hail. The greatest damage is to the growing wheat crop destroyed along the track of the storm. No lives were lost, but several houses were blown down.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 24.—The severest wind and thunder storm of the season passed over the city last evening. There was a heavy fall of hail, many windows being broken. As near as can be learned the storm was general for fifty miles around here.

THE NATION.

Pensions in the Senate and Commerce in the House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—After the routine morning business in the senate to-day, the private pension cases were taken up.

HOUSE.

Mr. Dingley, of Maine, from the shipping committee, reported back the shipping bill with the recommendation that certain senate amendments be concurred in, and others non-concurred. The recommendations of the committee were agreed to. Among the amendments non-concurred in is that known as the Frye amendment.

The speaker announced the appointment of Messrs. Blount, Riggs and Bingham as conferees on the postoffice appropriation bill, to talk over the $800,000 senate amendment rejected by the house.

The bill granting an increase of pension to the widow of Commander T. A. McGraven passed. Under the call of states the following bills were introduced and referred:

By Breckinridge, of Arkansas to consolidate the customs districts.

By Bland, to derive an income tax to be applied to the payment of pensions.

By Bennett, of North Carolina, to divide the surplus money in the treasury on June 1, 1886, among the several states and territories for educational purposes.

Secretary Manning continues to improve slowly. It is thought he will not resume his official duties until the beginning of next autumn.

Mr. Stahlmecker, from the committee on library, reported a bill appropriating $25,000 to aid in the erection of a monument to General Anthony Wayne, at Stony Point, N. Y. Referred to committee of the whole.

THE OLD STORY.

Three Children Burn Themselves to Death.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., May 24.—Three children of Michael Feenhan, a miner, left at home yesterday, poured coal oil into the grate and were burned to death.

A Rich Farmer Shot Dead.

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo., May 24.—Swin Anderson, one of the wealthiest and most respected farmers of this county, was shot and killed last Saturday night while on his way home from a Masonic lodge meeting. No motive except robbery is given as the cause of the murder.

A Sunday Fire.

BIRMINGHAM, Pa., May 24.—A fire yesterday destroyed the livery stables of Beekel & Biell, Kennedy & Eliak and Julian Clark and cremated five valuable horses. Loss about $15,000; very little insurance.

Judge Chapin went to Indianapolis at noon to-day.

A LITTLE CHAT.

Covering Politics, Men and Events of Interest in Fort Wayne.

The premium list for the state fair for 1886 is out. The fair will be held September 27 to October 2.

The democratic congressional convention of the second district, held at Washington, Ind., Thursday, nominated John H. O'Neill for congress. Thos. B. Cobb, the present incumbent, was not a candidate.

There are fifteen hold-over democrats in the Indiana state senate and ten hold-over republican senators. The democrats are certain of a nice majority in the next senate and can more than hold their own in the house.

Larry O'Brien, the man charged with cutting with intent to kill one Perry, at Decatur, some two weeks ago, was taken before the court and bail for his appearance at the next term of court was placed at $1,000, instead of $2,000, as formerly. He gave bail and is now a free man.

The Sisters of Providence at St. Mary's institute, near Terre Haute, have been so annoyed by persons who visit their grounds as though they were a public park, and have pious without permission, that they publish a notice prohibiting what is considered an intrusion.

The Eighty-fourth Indiana Volunteers will, with the Fortieth Ohio Volunteers, hold a brigade reunion at Union City, September 19, the anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga. These two regiments were brigaded together during their entire service, and no doubt this reunion will be a happy one.

At the Dairy Maids' Festival, given last Friday evening by young ladies of South Bend for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A., Governor Gray was present and delivered an address. During the day he visited the High School, Notre Dame University and St. Mary's academy and spoke to the students at length at each place.

"Hon. Robert Lowry made one of the best speeches we ever heard him make at the congressional convention last week. He is able, and this off-hand effort proves to every fair, honest and candid man that he is the right man in the right place. Who can take exceptions," says a Rome City correspondent.

Mr. Lafayette Sams, of Lagrange county, has invented a water bicycle, by which he can glide over the water with the ease of an ordinary velocipede rider on a good road, and about as fast. He gave a private exhibition of his operation on Sylvan lake on Tuesday last to an Island Park assembly committee, who were so well pleased with it as to engage him to ride the lake on the 4th of July.

"Notwithstanding the great fight made against Judge Lowry by the Gazette, of Fort Wayne, he was re-nominated by the democratic convention as a candidate for congress, and will be elected by an overwhelming majority over any man that the Gazette can name as a candidate on the republican ticket. 'Growler' can now begin to bark, as the way is clear and all danger is a thing of the past," says the Decatur Democrat.

The tenth annual meeting of the Music Teachers' State association of Indiana will be held in Indianapolis on June 22, 23, 24 and 25. Arrangements have been made with the world renowned pianist, Mr. W. H. Sherwood, to give a piano recital and lecture; also with Mr. M. L. Bartlett, a prominent vocalist of Chicago, and Mr. L. M. Forman, an organist of Philadelphia. The Indiana association is the oldest state association and one of the best.

A grand reunion of the improved order of Red Men will be held at the Indianapolis shooting park, July 5, under the auspices of Dakota Tribe, No. 42, of Frankfort and Minnequa Tribe, No. 38, of Indianapolis. Over two thousand Red Men are expected to be present. There will be a parade and addresses by Governor Gray and Mayor Denny. At the park there will be music, dancing, target shooting etc. Judge Joseph C. Suit, of Frankfort, will be orator of the day.

"Charley Munson, of Fort Wayne, who has practically a lien upon this democratic nomination for state auditor in his clothes, was in the city to-day, and he thinks the democracy have a sure thing upon the state this year. Martin Krueger, of Laporte, who wants to be clerk of the supreme court, was also here, and it is said of him that, while he takes this to be a solemn world, he is cheered by the exuberance of his political pronouncements," says the Indianapolis correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

BARTLEY CAMPBELL.

The Well-Known Playwright a Mental and Physical Weak.

Poor Bartley Campbell! He has gone quite off his head. They say he has followed in the footsteps of John McCullough. They say, too, that dissipation of various kinds caused his downfall. He was a brilliant, jolly fellow, who certainly deserved a better fate than to go crazy.

He was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., nearly or quite fifty years ago. He was a poor boy to begin, and the same fate has stuck to him ever since, with the exception of seven years, when he was in clover, and spent money like water.

He was a newspaper reporter, working on The Pittsburgh Dispatch till he was 37. He was chiefly noted for his uncommon imagination. They say it was a good deal easier for him to write a thing up without seeing it than with. This brilliant imagination got him into trouble sometimes, when unreasonable people insisted on drawing the line between fact and fancy, but it helped him in the story writing business. It is probable that 300 out of every 1,000 newspaper reporters try their hand at play writing. To be the great American play writer, who has never yet appeared on the scene, to write a tremendous drama, and thereafter settle down and live off his royalties and esopu newspaper drudgery—this is the golden dream of the average journalist.

Mr. Campbell had been tinkering at play writing many years before he produced "My Partner," his first success. He says, however, that the idea was put into his head by the praise bestowed on a story he dramatized for some amateurs to play. But he scribbled and had hard luck years before there was any reward. He led the forlorn hope of drama writing and play acting. He started companies about the country who broke up and walked back home trying to produce his unsuccessful plays. He was the byword for failure with the theatrical people.

At last "My Partner" hit the mark. At last money and a name were wanted on the breath of public applause for the forlorn playwright. Mr. Campbell went to Europe. He drove about the streets of beautiful Paris. He was shown the splendid mansions of the popular actors and theatre managers there. "Where do the authors of the plays live?" asks Bartley.

He was shown their cheap and shabby houses. "I will be both author and manager," then said he. When he returned home he produced his own plays, travelling about the country and superintending them. "The Galley Slave" was his next successful drama. After that came "The White Slave" and "Siberia." He had plenty of money then, and no end of friends. He was liberal with his money, giving to everybody that asked.

But at length he put a bad play on the stage at the Fourteenth Street theatre, New York, of which he was the lessee and manager. It failed, and Campbell himself went west with it, leaving his New York theatre to be managed for him. The play failed all along. His affairs became embarrassed and were put into receiver's hands. Campbell returned to New York, and acted very queer. One of his exploits was to break into the box office of his theatre and take therefrom sixty tickets, which he scattered promiscuously among people he knew.

Now at last it is feared he has all gone to pieces mentally. He resembles strongly the late Artemus Ward. He has a tall, stonily, loose-jointed figure, which adds to the likeness. Mr. Campbell has worked incessantly for his success, and it is melancholy to think of the fate that has overtaken him.

Dr. Mary Walker.

There are two things about this noted little woman that no fellow can find out. Nobody ever did and not yet, and the prospect is the doctor will go down to the grave keeping her mouth shut on these two important matters. Who says no woman but Berkley Jones can keep a secret?

One of the things nobody can ascertain about Dr. Mary is where she got the title of doctor, the other is how old she is. The latter, of course, is private, and nobody's business, but the first is something different.

Somewhere lately a newspaper remarked that the lady's mother had just died, aged 83. There is a tradition, too, that she was born in New York state. There is another tradition which people whisper with bated breath. It is that once, some time in the remote and shadowy past, Dr. Mary had a husband, whom she tried a while, and finding him was not agreeable, repudiated him with scorn, and thereafter went her precious way alone. But if so, before she left him she had him so well trained that he would not talk.

Dr. Mary Walker has been ever since the war one of the curiosities of the capital, like the Washington monument and the United States senate. This is because she wears trousers and a man's frock coat, and a hat half male and half female. She does not look bad in this costume. On the contrary, with her small feet and delicate features she really looks right enough; but the average level of humanity doesn't see that sort of thing every day, therefore it arches its back and howls.

Dr. Mary did good and unselfish work in the army hospitals during the war, for which she has not been paid to this day. The newspapers that have been gazing and catching the light, nervous little woman for the past twenty-five years have been in rather small business.

WORK!

This is the Question of the Hour.

A Big Strike of Harness Makers at Cincinnati—The Industrial News of the Day.

A Fierce Fire is Raging and Destroying the Lumber Yards at Wausau.

TEN HOURS.

Rule in the Door and Sash Factories.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Nearly all the sash, door and blind factories resumed on the ten hour plan this morning. A majority of the men returned to work. Two factories are still working on the eight hour plan, but expect to return to the ten hour rule in a few days.

PITTSBURGH, May 24.—There is such a scarcity of miners on the Monongahela river that less than one-third the mines between McKeesport and Brownsville are in full operation.

HARNESS MAKERS STRIKE. CINCINNATI, May 24.—About 600 harness makers struck to-day for an advance in wages. They had been working eight hours a day, but are not satisfied with the wages they received. They demand an increase of from 15 to 20 per cent.

THE MEN WON.

PITTSBURGH, May 24.—The board of arbitration chosen to settle the difference between the street car men and their employers, made an award this afternoon sustaining the demands of the men for twelve hours work.

FIRE! FIRE!

Big Blaze in the Wausau Lumber District.

WAUSAU, Wis., May 24.—A disastrous fire broke out here this afternoon, raging furiously in the lumber district. B. G. Plummer's mills and yards have been swept away. Other yards are certain to go. Several buildings have also been burned. No estimate of loss given.

A NEW ONE.

Six Comets Now Visible in the Heavens.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 24.—Prof. W. R. Brooks, of Phelps, N. Y., reports to the Warner observatory here the discovery of a new comet. It is large but faint. Its position is as follows: Right ascension, 11 degrees, 51 minutes, 15 seconds; right declination, north 8 degrees, 55 minutes, 15 seconds. Dr. Lewis Swift says: "As this is not an expected comet, unless it is the old Bois comet of 1816, which is expected about this time, Prof. Brooks is entitled to another comet prize of $100. There are six comets now visible."

Bad Work with Dynamite.

DETROIT, May 22.—The ill-feeling between the Saginaw lumber men and the Isabella county mill owners over the obstruction of navigation is very strong. The log drivers took possession of Wood-in's dam and when the men interfered the log drivers threw two of them into the river. This morning a dynamite cartridge exploded under the dam of Barris Brothers, doing much damage.

New Temperance Movement.

COLUMBUS, May 22.—The state non-partisan temperance union was organized yesterday, with Dr. O. Cono, Akron, president, and O. D. Cotton, secretary. It is organized to insist on a better execution of the laws restraining and regulating the liquor traffic.

He Skips the Country.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Charles H. Reed, who defended Quinlan, has been charged with misappropriating a check for $1,500 belonging to Wm. Campbell. He was yesterday released from jail and is believed to have fled the country.

Willie, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Stonsieffer, 82 West Main street, died last evening of brain fever.

LOCAL LINES.

Mr. E. L. Caw is at Indianapolis.

Mrs. Simon Hass and daughter, of Napoleon, Ohio, were in the city yesterday.

A stable on Ohio street was unroofed by a stroke of lightning Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hollenbeck left this morning for New York, thence to sail to Europe.

Mrs. Frank H. McKinnie and her pretty little daughter, of Columbus, O., are in the city.

Trumbull, the colored M. E. college student, was on trial before the mayor to-day for insulting a German girl.

Ambrose Geary is confined to his home by a severe gash on his right foot. A wagon ran over the limb Saturday evening.

A horse driven by a son of Herman Tapp, indulged in a furious runaway to-day, but encountered a lamp post and fell.

Sir Knights F. N. Kollock and C. E. Graves left at noon for Rochester, Ind., to institute a uniform rank, Knights of Pythias.

The case of Herman Michael, administrator, vs. H. W. Mordhurst for $5,000 damages, is on trial before a jury in the superior court.

Professors Gert Shober and Dan Stark were at Wausau yesterday in the interest of the band tournament. They report entirely too much water at that resort.

Professor Bristol's sixteen horses arrived this morning by Adams express from Huntingdon, Pa. The express charges for transportation were only the trifling sum of $250.

Prof. Bristol's educated horses open a week's engagement at the Temple to-night. The professor made a street parade this afternoon and would have had Spiegel's band, but the musicians refused to walk.

Hon. Dennis O'Day, of Lake township, is in the city to-day. Mr. O'Day says this is the most promising spring for everything that is raised on a farm that he has seen during his thirty-three years residence in Allen county.

The ladies of the Congregational church give an ice cream and strawberry festival at the residence of Colonel C. A. Munson to-morrow evening. Mrs. Dick Meyer will receive the guests and a public invitation is extended.

Rev. W. H. McFarland, of the Second Presbyterian church, has been tendered a two months vacation, which he will accept, and make a trip to Europe. Mr. McFarland has been in feeble health for some time, and he hopes by this trip to be greatly benefited.

Mr. W. D. Maier announces himself to-day as a democratic candidate for re-nomination for county clerk. Mr. Maier is the present occupant of the office, and has had some twelve years experience as assistant clerk. He is most capable, thorough, an agreeable, willing servant, and a democrat through and through. He has a great personal following.

No Performance To-night.

The following dispatch was received by Manager Wilkinson late this afternoon.

MUNCIE, Ind., Depot 2:13 p. m. Manager Wilkinson, Academy, Fort Wayne.

My baggage was left at Terre Haute. Can't open to-night. Railroad to blame. Everything will be all right for Tuesday night.

O. P. SIMON.

Manager "Little Nugget."

The company is one of the best on the road and they would have been greeted by a crowded house. They will be here, however, this evening and their engagement will positively open to-morrow night.

A Brilliant Wedding.

Last Sunday was a big day for our little village. It was the occasion of a brilliant wedding. Miss Mamie McCormick, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Rev. T. H. McCormick, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. David Houser, of Koudalville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Blaney, in the presence of quite a select party of admiring friends. We learn that the young couple intend going to housekeeping immediately. While we are sorry to lose Mr. Houser one of our most estimable young ladies, we congratulate Mr. Houser on his success in securing a gem "more precious than rubies." May their married life be one long summer day of happiness without a cloud to dim its horizon.

Poe, Ind., May 20.

FRIGHT!

Seizes Hold of the Oil Speculators,

Who Drop Their Stocks at the Slight of News from the Cameron Well,

Which Started With 5,000 Barrels a Day and is Doing 147 an Hour Now.

FEVERISH!

Is the Pulse of the Pittsburg Oil Market.

PITTSBURGH, May 24.—Another heavy break in oil this morning was caused by a big strike at the Cameron well, in the Washington district. The market opened weak and panicky at 66 1/2 and quickly fell to 63 1/2, which was four cents lower than Saturday's close. The news created the greatest excitement in oil circles large blocks of certificates were thrown on the market. There were no failures, however, and at 11 o'clock prices had rallied to 64 1/2. The Cameron well is located three miles west of Washington borough and not far from the Smith and Dyer wells. It started off yesterday at a rate of 5,000 barrels a day and is now doing 147 barrels an hour.

Hard on Maxwell.

St. Louis, May 24.—A fellow-prisoner named McDonald testified to-day that Maxwell confessed to him that he killed Preller in a quarrel at the Southern hotel.

THE MARKETS.

New York, May 24.—Wheat, 1 1/2c lower and active. No. 2 red, June, 86 1/2c. Corn, lower; Western 35c 47. Oats, quiet and firm. Western at 38 1/2c 45c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Wheat, weaker at 75c. Corn, steady at 35 1/2c. Oats, steady at 28c.

Burial Customs in Tibet.

The Tibetans have four ways in which they perform the obsequies of the dead. The souls of wealthy people here, as elsewhere, require a good deal of ceremony and prayer under the auspices of the ecclesiastics, in fact, as much of both as the estate can pay for. In practice no less will suffice, whatever dogma may assert. 1. If a man of means dies unfortunately during the time crops are standing, it would bring bad were he disposed of at that time, so he is pickled to await the harvest. This is done by tying his head between his knees and putting him, surrounded with salt, into a bag. The bag is put in a basket, and the basket is sewn up well in cloth to prevent unpleasantness, and he is placed in the stable under the first floor to await the harvest and the suitable day. Then, the day being chosen for his incineration, the ecclesiastics commence their prayers, etc., as many days ahead of the day fixed upon as the wealth of the family will allow. The day having arrived, he is cremated with further ceremony on a pile of wood saturated with melted butter to make it burn quickly. After that there only remains a good dinner to the ecclesiastics, and the settlement of their bill. 2. For very important personages, chiefs, and high ecclesiastics, the body is carried to the top of a mountain after the usual protracted ceremonies, and then gongs are beaten and fires are lighted to attract vultures and wild dogs. These know only too well what the signals indicate. The head ecclesiastic then enters the body into very small portions, and throws the pieces, bit by bit, to the dogs and vultures. When nothing is left but the big bones, these are powdered up and mixed with barley meal (Tsoung pa), and then the mixture is thrown after the flesh. The highest token of respect paid to a very exalted personage consists in the head ecclesiastic (after having gone through the above process) mixing up a cup of Tsoung pa with his fingers, without having washed his hands, and then eating it himself. 3. The most ordinary course is to take the corpse to a river or to a hill, and there place it on the ground, naked, and tied by the head, the body is then cut in two with a sword to further assist the wild animals in their office, and it is then left alone. If the deceased desired this class of funeral, any ceremonies that may be performed (provided he could pay for any) take place at his house, and not where the body is taken to. 4. In the case of a poor person the body is carried, usually at night, and thrown into the nearest river, if there be one. Finding a convenient stream sufficiently large to carry away the corpse, it is treated as in the third case, minus all rites and ceremonies.

THE LAND OF THE MORNING CALM.

Climo Within Which No Friend May Set Foot.

"I ask you," says the author, "to go with me to a land whose life for ages has been a mystery—a land which from time unknown has kept aloof, apart, so that the very possibility of such seclusion is itself a mystery, and which only yesterday opened her gates. For cycles and cycles she has been in the world, but not for it. Her people have been born, have lived, have died, oblivious to all that was passing around them. They might have been denizens of another planet for aught they knew of the history of this. And the years glided into centuries, and the centuries grew to be numbered by tens, and still the veil remained as tightly drawn as at the beginning. It was but last year that Corea stepped as a debutante into the society of the world."

Having thus whetted our curiosity by a method as artistic as could have been adopted by an Oriental storyteller, the author tells us, where this wonderful land lies. On a large map of the world there is a peninsula just to the west of the Japanese islands. This is the peninsula of Corea. It was only in 1876 that the Japanese succeeded in making the first treaty by which Corea had ever deigned to acknowledge the existence of this outer world. Whence came its people? Long before the idea of the prime meridian had entered the minds of men the races of Asia put the birthplace of the day where we have agreed to find it. They shaped their course to the sea from which the sun rose. The Aryans went west, certain of the Tyrian peoples, struck east, but when they arrived at the seas, their advance was stopped, and they could only sit down and dream of an earthly paradise beyond the water. The Japanese at last ventured on the sea and risked their way across the strait that separates what have become their islands from the Korean peninsula. But beyond these islands was nothing save the everlasting blue. Every morning the sun rose from out the ocean, and so they named the land "The Day's Beginning" long ago in the morning of the ages. A new horde from the north next came forth, tarried in the land, became part of it. Year after year, and century after century, passed away. The sun rose for them in peaceful splendor, and its beams flooded the valleys and nestled on the land. "Morning Calm" they called it.

There are three twenty ports in Corea, and by the revised Japanese treaty of 1880 and the subsequent treaties with America, England, and Germany these three places have been opened to foreign trade—that is, when there is such a thing. The most important place in Corea is Seoul, and this is the chief place to which our guide takes us. After having come to the United States, his native country, from Japan with the Korean special mission in the autumn of 1883, he went to Corea, reaching it in December of the same year, and spent the winter in Seoul as the guest of his majesty. He describes very humorously and graphically the two days' ride in a palanquin from the port of Chemulpo to Seoul, and says that when he first saw the walled city he never beheld anything that so completely realized the fancies of his boyish dreams—the imaginations of the time when, as a lad, his thoughts sped away from the pages of the "Arabian Nights" to the dreamy Orient. It is, however, when the author comes to discuss the form and principle of government in Corea, the patriarchal principle which prevails in family life, the position of woman, the want of religion, and other kindred topics, that he is seen at his best as guide, philosopher, and friend.

The king of Corea is an absolute monarch. Divine by right, he is omnipotent through heredity. But his will, though law, is transmitted to the people through an elaborate system of magistrates. One man often holds many offices, but literature is the only portal to political power, and only after a man has passed several literary examinations and received his diploma can he be appointed to office. —Philadelphia Record.

A Beautiful Blow.

"One day in 1867," says Mr. Ed. Johnson, of the Boston Herald, "I was standing in front of the old Logan House at Altoona, Pa., admiring a superb-looking man who was pacing up and down the walk, meditating, presumably, as the rest of us were, on the length of minutes when one is waiting for a delayed train. Presently a big, broad-shouldered molder, who seemed to recognize the superb gentleman, stumbled up near him and muttered something which was evidently intended to offend him. The superb gentleman, however, paid no more attention to it than to look rather sharply at the molder and pass on. Soon the molder repeated the performance, with about the same result, and the lookers-on began to wonder what it all meant. By and by the molder, evidently mistaking the superb gentleman's indifference to him for cowardice, stopped squarely before him and said something which would not look well in print about 'the d—d Yankee general.'"

"I never saw a handkerchief blow in my life. It landed squarely on the jaw of the molder and seemed to raise him neatly and gracefully into the air and then stretch him fully at full length on the platform several feet away. The superb gentleman looked at the back of his hand with an expression of disgust as if condemning the hand for what it had done, and then resumed his promenade as if nothing had happened. The last I saw of the molder his friends were helping him away, but I frequently saw Gen. Hancock after that, and came to know that he was always the same kind of man—slow to take offense, but wonderfully effective in punishing one who did succeed in offending."

MECHANICAL.

A PATENT has been secured for carrying natural gas safely long distances. It is a process of mixing air with gas in such proportions that, while the danger of explosion is taken away, all the heating quality still remains. It will also leave the air of the rooms in which it is used in a healthy condition.

FROM OLIVELAND ARMY anticipates the time when each citizen shall have the right to pay ten cents and demand his special weather telegram, precisely as he pays his two cents and demands to have his letter carried by mail. A few years ago the highest attainable proportion of correct prognostications was about eighty per cent; now eighty-five per cent is expected.

This recipe for cementing iron is given by an English mechanical journal: Take equal parts of sulphur and white lead, with about a sixth of borax; incorporate the three thoroughly. When about to apply it wet it with strong sulphuric acid, and place a thin layer of it between the two pieces of iron and press them together. In five days it will be dry, all traces of the cement having vanished, and the iron will have the appearance of having been welded together.

SIR WILLIAM THOMPSON has recently calculated that the average size of a chemical atom is not less than six, and not greater than sixty, billionths of a cubic inch. It has also been calculated that in a cubic inch of air there are 300,000,000,000,000,000,000 atoms. Hence the cubic inch of air is by no means full, and it is possible for them to move eighteen miles a minute, and collide against each other 8,600,000 times a second, as has also been lately calculated that they do.

The latest thing in steam bicycles is the invention of a New Jersey man. The fuel used is gasoline, and is carried in a tank holding one pint, which is enough to run the engine an hour. The boiler is made of copper and brass, of the drop water tube type, with fourteen half-inch tubes ten inches long. It is a complete boiler, with anti-burning jacket, safety-valve, steam and water gauges, etc. The water-tank is in the form of a globe, and is fitted with a little pump which feeds the boiler. The engine proper, including driving pulley, weighs about two pounds. The whole outfit weighs only eighteen pounds, and it is supposed to carry the rider along at the rate of twelve or fifteen miles an hour.

Goods are made to a considerable extent in Saxony from a textile fibre obtained from the needles of the fir tree. The needles, young and green, are dried and subjected to a settling and fermenting process similar to that in use for flax, which softens the woody parts and loosens them from the fibre, though the complete separation is only obtained after a lengthy boiling by steam. During this boiling a by-product appears, called fir-wood oil, which is similar to turpentine. The fibre is passed through a mangle-machine like those used for woolen cloth, and is carded and spun like cotton. Generally the carded fibre is mixed with a certain proportion of cotton or wool, and thus a kind of merino yarn is produced, which is worked in the hosiery frames into singlets, drawers, stockings, etc., these fabrics being then sold as anti-rheumatic and as a preventive of gout.

The American Architect makes the suggestion that possibly the loss of the Oregon may have been due to the character of the steel plates of which the vessel was constructed; quite as much as the force of the blow which caused the break in her side. According to present ideas, it says, a steel plate, to replace with advantage the wrought-iron plates formerly used, should contain so slight a percentage of carbon as to be soft, almost malleable, and incapable of hardening by dipping, when red-hot, in cold water. Steel plates of this kind show similar softness, toughness and strength to wrought iron, and should not have been so easily broken through as the plates of the Oregon were. But a few more pounds of carbon to the ton will make the plates far stronger, stiffer and more elastic, but also much more brittle; and since the ideas of engineers as to the proper use of steel have somewhat changed since the Oregon was built, it may be that the brittleness of her plates contributed to the disaster which caused her loss.

Hunting Stories.

A gentleman by the name of Johnson, of Davison County, Indiana, who has been quite a hunter, told a story that once on a time he saw a fine turkey gobbler on a tree, and, taking snare aim, he fired. Being a good shot, and the turkey not far off, he was surprised that it flew away. Going under the tree on which the turkey sat, it was found that he had shot the fowl's head clear from the body, while the latter had flown away.

A bystander declared it was true, for, said he, "I was once hunting in the same woods Johnson shot the turkey's head off and the turkey flew away, and by the light of the moon discovered a very large, fine coon. Taking a good aim, I fired, and down came—"

"No, his tail. I had shot it clear from the body."

"And did you get the coon?"

"No-o-o. It skipped by the light of the moon." —Detroit Free Press.

Tornado Points Located.

In a report to the French Academy of Sciences of the 172 tornadoes recorded in the United States in 1881, a.ons. Faye considers it established that there is a definite portion of an area of low barometer most favorable to tornadoes. The Signal Service reporters are now endeavoring to determine this "dangerous ocean" still more accurately. A memorable day in the history of tornadoes was February 19, 1884, when no less than forty-five were recorded in the Southeastern States, attended with a loss of 800 lives, 2,500 injured, 10,000 houses and buildings destroyed, and 15,000 people left homeless.

How an Ice-Yacht Is Sailed.

An ice-yacht is also sailed with her sheet trimmed flat aft. With the wind dead astern, however, the reader may very naturally infer that only the actual speed of the wind can be attained. In a race several miles to windward and return, the contestants do not point straight for the stake on the home-stretch by any means. You will see them sheering from one side of the river to the other, seemingly under the control of very erratic steersmen. Not at all! Each of these men is getting the best pace out of his boat. As soon as he finds the wind astern he sheers off to port or starboard, as judgment dictates, his boat gains headway, and now comes in the sailor's skill. Presumably he knows his boat's peculiarities and he puts her on exactly her best sailing angle. When he feels "in his bones" that, with the existing wind, she has attained her highest possible speed, he gently puts his helm up, and away she flies with her acquired momentum dead to leeward through the wind. Sometimes she will keep this up for half a mile or more, and as soon as the trained nerves of the helmsman tell him that she is losing headway he puts her on the wind again, and inspires her with a fresh burst of speed. Such a race, it will readily be understood, calls out the highest qualities of skill and judgment on the part of contestants. Indeed, the result of a race to leeward depends on skill pure and simple far more than does a race where the course can be laid both ways with the wind abeam.—Outing.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Combines, in a manner peculiar to itself, the best blood-purifying and strengthening remedies of the vegetable kingdom. You will find this wonderful remedy effective where other medicines have failed. Try it now. It will purify your blood, regulate the digestion, and give new life and vigor to the entire body. "Hood's Sarsaparilla did me great good. I was tired out from overwork, and it toned me up." Mrs. U. E. SNOW, Cohoes, N. Y. "I suffered from a sore throat and bad breath. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am cured." Mrs. M. J. DAVIS, Brockton, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by these peculiarities: 1st, the combination of medicinal agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence. "Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, strengthens my appetite, and seems to make me over." A. J. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass. "Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." L. HANCOCK, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full supplies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Down 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

Best Rio Coffee down to 10c a pound; good Rio coffee down to 8c a pound; best Roasted Rio down to 12c a pound; Government Java, 30c.; Roasted Java 25c.

TEAS Reduced in Proportion.

As no more luxury to buy Tea. When they were $1 and $1 per pound then of course the consumption of them was small, but now the price is so low that a good Tea can be bought at 25c per pound then they come within the reach of all. We are unable to sell as low as this in consequence of our immense trade. At times we sell two and three chests daily, and buying direct of the importers and selling direct to the consumers, enables us to save our customers the profits of the jobber, speculator and wholesale merchant, which is at least 10 to 20 per pound.

The Daily Sentinel

MONDAY, MAY 24, 1886.

THE CITY.

This month has five Sundays.
Col. Jim Humphrey, of the Bliss house, Bluffton, is in the city.
The attendance yesterday at the various churches of the city was large.
Joseph Schumaker, 110 West Creighton avenue, won the fine Gendron bicycle in the Sam, Pete & Max presentation scheme.
Lightning struck the electric light works at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, deranging the circuit and leaving the west end in darkness.
Johnny Wilt, whose parents live at the corner of Wilt and VanBuren streets, was run over by a horse and buggy Saturday evening. He was not seriously injured.

Rev. S. A. Northrop leaves this week for New Jersey, to attend a Baptist convention. His pulpit will be filled Sunday by the Baptist minister from Huntington.

Business on the Nickel Plate is dull this month. To date the majority of engineers and firemen have not put in over nine or ten days, although eighteen working days have passed.

The frost of last week was more injurious than was at first expected. Apples, especially, appear to have greatly suffered from it. The young fruit is rapidly dropping from the trees.

Rev. S. A. Northrop addressed the Fort Wayne Rifles yesterday morning. The company formed at their rooms and marched to the church in a body. They make a handsome appearance when in uniform.

The water works trustees meet tonight to talk over pumping house affairs. There are many applications for the place made vacant by the resignation of Morris Zollinger, whose management is not satisfactory.

The business of our city is reviving, and the increased trade of the past week has greatly encouraged our merchants. Saturday evening the streets were thronged with people, most all of whom were buying something.

There is a great demand for good carpenters at present. Men who are capable of doing fine work, such as finishing the interior of buildings, are largely sought for by our contractors, and good workmen get steady employment and good wages the year through.

Parents should keep their small children off the streets, if possible. It is a common thing for fifteen or twenty little ones to gather at the corners where there is a light, and the driver of a spirited horse who succeeds in passing the crowd without running over two or three is fortunate.

County Treasurer Dalmau is at home from Indianapolis. He paid into the state treasury $48,854 and drew out $26,380 as Allen county's share of the school fund. At the regular settlement Mr. Dalmau gets some $20,000 more. He simply held out $26,380 to avoid the cost of interchange.

It has been decided to hold the Allen county Sunday school convention at the First Presbyterian church, this city, beginning Monday evening, June 14th, and continuing to Tuesday, June 15th. The executive committee on entertainment is to consist of one member from each Sunday school in the city. Superintendents of our city schools are requested to send at once, the name of some one to represent their school on this committee, to M. P. Longacre, city. It is hoped every Sunday school in the city will aid in this work, and report promptly.

The superior court jury was convened at noon.

Captain Dideon has lately improved the Tremont house at a considerable outlay.

The weather indications for Indiana are: Local rains, no decided change in temperature.

Mr. W. B. Beamer, the largest hearted man on the Wabash system, spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. C. B. Woodworth is entertaining her pretty niece, Miss Lolo Gaylor, of San Antonio, Texas.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the R. R. Y. M. C. A. meets Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, standard time.

The bans of Engineer Tom Telly to a pretty young lady were announced at the Cathedral yesterday.

The will of Sarah Mayhew was filed to-day. She leaves her property to her husband and children.

The suit of John Dreihelb vs. John Goldstone, for a commission, is on trial before the circuit court jury.

Henry Krimmel, of George Bowen's force, has accepted a place with Bradley & McNulty, at Danville, Ill.

Mrs. Thomas Cox, Mrs. Dr. Eldred and Miss Fannie Lewis, of Chicago, are the guests of Mrs. Will P. Breen.

Mr. T. E. Ellison has returned from an extensive trip south. He visited his father in his new Kentucky home.

Very Rev. Father Brammer is again entirely well and preached an eloquent sermon at the Cathedral yesterday morning.

Several men employed in paving South Calhoun street, quit this morning to get higher wages. Ambrose Geary is contractor for that work.

The beer gardens and forests swarmed with picnickers yesterday. The shower in the afternoon moistened many of the pleasure seekers.

General Manager Talmage and Superintendent Stevens, of the Wabash road passed through here yesterday on an inspection tour to Detroit.

The picnic of the Fort Wayne Turnverein at the Tivola garden, yesterday afternoon, was well attended, but the rain spoiled the festivities.

Thirty-two quick delivery letters were handed in the Fort Wayne postoffice last week. The two delivery boys can earn on an average $7 a week.

The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad company is fitting its line between Pittsburg and Chicago with interlocking switches and signals.

Mr. Ed J. Golden is giving away Dandelions and everything in his line. It is all because of the advent of a sweet, black-eyed girl baby at his home.

Mr. W. W. Rockhill, the city clerk, is confined to his home by malarial fever. Mr. Rockhill has a legion of friends who will be sorry to hear that he is sick.

The regular cottage meeting of the R. Y. M. C. A. will be held at Mr. Christian Laible's, 96 DeWald street, on Tuesday evening at 7:30, standard time.

The county commissioners are inspecting bridges in Jackson, Jefferson and Monroe townships. Auditor Louis Griebel accompanies the commissioners on their trip.

Sarah Mayhew, the wife of a well known farmer, was buried yesterday from Brown's chapel on the St. Joe road. She was fifty years old and died of consumption.

D. C. Fisher, as trustee, and George B. Place and Henry J. Treatman and twelve others to foreclose a mortgage for $15,000. Bell & Morris are attorneys for the claimants.

Engene Nus, a vagrant, Charles Huxley and Orville Adams, drunkards, were arraigned at police court this morning. The vag was let go, but the other fellows went over.

The damage suit of Tom Demosthenes Weaver vs. Tom Ahern, has been dismissed from Judge O'Rourke's court. Mr. Weaver sued for $1,000 damage because of a broken leg.

The affairs of the law firm of Coombs, Bell & Morris were settled to-day. Judge Coombs will retire from active life, but will let his fancy turn to poultry raising, in which his son, Tom Coombs, is engaged.

The "Nugget" company open at the Academy this evening. There is just sufficient plot to the piece to make it interesting. After the first act it merges into specialties that keep the audience in a happy humor until the close.

Joseph F. Getz and Louisa Paragonay, Nathan Coon and Ida LeMay, Phillip J. Mohr and Octavia L. Rank, Louis Doctor and Lucia A. Soest, L. M. Bloomington and Mary Rabus, Christopher McKernon and Flora B. Salton have been licensed to wed.

The afternoon service at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. was well attended and great interest prevailed among the members. A call was made for short testimonies and nearly every one present responded. The lecture room of the association has been enlarged and will be repapered and decorated this week. It now has a much greater seating capacity. One hundred and twenty-five can be accommodated with comfort.

The Academy and Temple close this week.

Rev. Bishop Rademacher left at noon for his home at Nashville, Tenn., Charles King, the Cincinnati liquor tourist, is a guest of the Avenue house.

Professor Bristol's school of eighteen trick horses are cared for at Liggett's stable.

Mr. J. E. Humphrey, of Columbus, Ohio, was in the city yesterday, the guest of friends.

Mrs. F. O. Stringer, of this city, was registered at the Grand hotel, Indianapolis, to-day.

J. K. McCracken and his brother, from New York city, left this morning for Kansas City.

Messrs. Whitehead and Esmond intend to build a new business block on South Calhoun street.

The local produce exchange is not doing a mammoth business. The speculators are few.

Sheriff Nelson has dispatched a messenger for Jane Chapman, who is cured at the state asylum.

The city council meets to-morrow night in regular session and will then fix the salaries of the city officers.

Frank Meegan, a Fort Wayne boy, who is associated in the commission business at Omaha, has opened a branch house at Kansas City.

The new Pittsburg time card will put on two trains on the division east from Fort Wayne. A train leaves here at 11 a. m. and returns at 7 p. m.

The funeral of William Chamberlain will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, 40 East Jefferson street. Friends are invited to attend without further notice.

Gen. Durbin Ward, who died at Lebanon, Ohio, Saturday, spoke here the day of the Blaine demonstration and fell a victim to the pickpockets who followed the Maine statesman. Mr. Ward was robbed of his watch and money, but friends here supplied his wants.

Mrs. J. D. Sealer, of Fort Wayne, formerly of this city, is in a very critical condition and her recovery is doubtful. Her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Immell, is still with her. The lady has had several attacks of hemorrhage of the lungs, says the Huntington Democrat.

The city council will fix the salaries of its officers to-morrow night. This city is excellently officered, and the council can afford to be liberal with the public servants. Their honesty, no one questions, their capability no one can, and their zeal should receive the support it so richly deserves.

The grand lodge, F. and A. M., of Indiana, will meet in Masonic Temple, Indianapolis, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock and continue in session until Wednesday evening. Nearly 1,700 railroad tickets have been issued, and the attendance will be fully double that of any previous meeting.

Mr. Peter Certia and Miss Rose Mosier were married last evening at the residence of Mr. John Langohr. Mr. Certia is a popular gentleman and his wife a charming young lady, so that a host of friends wish them much joy and happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Certia are at home in a cozy cottage on the north side.

While in the Hamilton bank at noon to-day, Mr. O. L. Perry espied a pocket book lying on the outside desk without an owner. After asking the only other person in the place at that time as to its ownership, he promptly laid hands on it and turned it in to President McCulloch. The owner can get his wallet by calling at the bank.

"The grand lodge met on Wednesday. The proposition of Fort Wayne lodge, No. 14, to return to the initiatory for the transaction of lodge business, was overwhelmingly voted down. If two or more black balls are cast against an applicant for membership by initiation he is rejected; less than that number he is elected, and there can be but one ballot, and no postponement of the same," says the Indianapolis Journal.

Prof Louis F. Schultz, the violinist who won some fame here, is now a resident of Detroit, and the Free Press speaks in high praise of a series of concerts given by the Schultz quartet. Mr. Schultz was at the Leipsic academy with Prof. Ed. Noll, of this city, and he sends Mr. Gust Bruder accounts of his triumph at Detroit. Prof. Wallenstein, another Fort Wayne musician, is at Grand Rapids and he is up in musical circles there.

Conductor T. J. Nixon, of the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad, has returned from attending the annual meeting of the Passenger Conductors' Life Insurance association of the United States, at Philadelphia. The affairs of association were found to be in bad condition. A large number of deaths had drained the resources and everything had sunk down. A new organization was effected. Mr. George McGford, of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, was elected president and Mr. Nixon was elected a non-resident director. The convention resolved to go to work with new vigor and the association will undoubtedly take new life. The next convention will be held in Boston, next May.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Wm. Chamberlain.

Another honored citizen in the meridian of his life and manhood, has passed away to join the great majority on the other side. Mr. William Henry Chamberlain, chief clerk in the roadmaster's office of the Pittsburg railway, expired at the family residence, No. 40 East Jefferson street, at 8 o'clock last evening. On Thursday, while engaged in his usual office work, deceased was stricken with paralysis. He was tenderly conveyed to his home, and hopes of his recovery were expressed by his physicians, but subsequently he was thrown into convulsions, which continuing, weakened him, so that he succumbed to natural physical exhaustion. Mr. Chamberlain was in some respects a remarkable man, in this, that he lived entirely within himself, although his entire life has been lived in this, the city of his birth. He had but few acquaintances comparatively, but those few were his devoted friends. Since the death of his father, in 1855, he has been the prop and mainstay of his mother and sisters, to whom he was devotedly attached. He had no taste for the ordinary pleasures of life, as he told our reporter last week he had never been inside the Academy of Music in his life. The duties of his office and the domestic attractions of his home engrossed his entire time and attention.

Supt. Law, Mr. Higgins, Jackson, Simons, Walton and others, with whom for twenty-six years he has been intimately associated with in his official duties, speak of him as a man whose place it will be hard to fill. No better penman or accountant can be found in the city, whose mathematical calculations and solutions of intricate measurements in miles or quantities could be depended upon for absolute accuracy, and whose clerical work was so satisfactory to the great corporation in whose employ he has spent the best part of his days. Of a retiring disposition, a generous frank nature, it is those who knew him best who will mourn him most.

Deceased was born August 13, 1838. He leaves a widowed mother, three sisters and one brother. Mrs. Mary Mulberry, one of the sisters residing at Big Rapids, Mich., arrived Saturday evening. Another sister, from the same place, Mrs. Maggie Legget, is expected this evening. The obsequies will be under the direction of the L. O. O. F., of which order he was an honored member.

THOMAS BRADBURY

Arrested for a Most Inhuman Crime.

Prosecutor Dawson, and his deputy, Mr. Bittinger, held a secret investigation at their office Saturday, and the result was a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Bradbury on complaint of his twelve year old daughter. Sheriff Nelson arrested Bradbury out in Wayne township, yesterday, and lodged him in jail. His children charge him with inhuman, disgusting practices and the most revolting and depraved to perfection. Bradbury is known to the police and frequently applies their assistance in recovering his wife, who shuns him. Bradbury used to be a prosperous Pleasant township farmer, but is now dissipated, and has been sleeping in stables and straw stacks. He will have a preliminary hearing as soon as the witnesses against him can come in.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

Fred Baumeister Behind the Bars for Grand Larceny.

Fred Baumeister is in jail and can proclaim that "justice surely overtakes the fugitive." Last July, almost a year ago, Baumeister stole a watch and some money from his bed fellow at the boarding house of Herman Meyers on John street. The man worked in the Bass foundry and was friends, but Baumeister fled from the city and wandered from place without care of mind, finally coming home to find Sheriff Nelson as vigilant as a lark. Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Ed Claumeyer put irons on Baumeister and he is in jail to answer the charge of grand larceny. He is good for a sojourn at the lake side for robbing Henry Wehman.

Attention, Jeffersonians.

The new club rooms in the Stotz building, on Main street, are ready for occupancy and will be formally opened to-night. All the old Jeffersonians are invited to the parlors, and all democrats and their friends are equally welcome.

Memorial Day.

The joint committee on Memorial day will meet this evening at James E. Graham's office. Every member is requested to be present as important business will be transacted.
